36. LEARN TO WRITE ESSAYS

A. Write an essay on the following topics with the help of the outline given for each of them:

1. MAHATMA GANDHI

Many great leaders have taken birth on Indian soil. Mohan Das Karam Chand Gandhi popularly known as Mahatma Gandhi was born in a middle class family in Gujarat on 2nd October, 1869.

He was an average student at school but showed signs of future greatness. He did not obey his teacher to copy from a fellow student to show better performances to the school Inspector who visited the school. He was influenced by Harish Chandra's truthfulness and Sarvana's service to his parents. After Matriculation in India, he went to England to study Law after which he returned to India. Sometime later he went to South Africa. He saw that the Indians were badly discriminated there. He fought for their rights despite threats by the white regime there.
He returned to India and impressed Indian leaders with his life-principal of Ahimsa (non-violence). With this weapon, he continued freedom struggle and ultimately won it in August 1947. He taught Indians the dignity of labour. He did not favour such a system of education as produced clerks only. He advocated basic education which could accommodate Indian traditions. He impressed everyone with simplicity of his life-style, sincerity of purpose and strength of character. On 30th January, 1948, he fell to the bullets of a misguided Indian youth.

2. THE POSTMAN

The postman is a useful public servant. He is known almost to all he is concerned with. He can be seen going on rounds everyday. He wears a prescribed uniform. He carries letters. The duty of a postman is very important. He must deliver the letters at their exact destinations with the help of the addresses written thereon. He is eagerly awaited by all as he brings good or bad news from their relatives or friends. A postman has to be polite to discharge his duty well and smoothly. His polite behaviour makes him dear to many families. He gets gifts in cash or kind from such families on the occasion of some festivals which they celebrate. A postman’s duty is very hard. He has to perform it in rain, sunshine, summer or winter. To a common man, the postman is a symbol of duty. He is an ideal government/public servant. We should all praise him for his sincerity and punctuality.

B. Write an essay on each of the following:

1. THE ELEPHANT

The elephant is a large grey or greyish-brown animal with a long flexible trunk, prominent ears, thick legs, and pointed tusks. Elephants are the largest living land animals. Three species of elephants remain in existence today: the African elephant, African forest elephant and Asian or Indian elephant. Its peculiar feature is that it draws up water by its trunk and squirts it all over its body. It can carry huge loads and can pile timber. For these purposes man hunts and trains them. Usually they live in the forest. They eat only vegetable food grains.

The African elephant is the larger animal. In Africa elephants are hunted mainly for their tusks, which yield ivory and are of great value. The Indian elephant has a smoother trunk and smaller ears.

An elephant will often travel a long way for water. Then it drinks as much as possible, storing the water in its stomach. Elephants may have as many as six sets of teeth in a lifetime of fifty years. An adult male elephant is called a bull, an adult female is a cow and a baby elephant is calf. Usually they live peacefully together. Elephants move about mostly at night and sleep standing up during the day. Their big feet and pillar like legs help them keep their balance, so they can rest while standing up. In spite of their size, they have been domesticated for centuries.

2. A VISIT TO A ZOO

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Last Sunday our class went to the Delhi zoo. We reached the zoo in our school bus. The entry to the zoo was by tickets. It was 11.30 a.m, a pleasant day. We saw many deer of different kind and size. They were kept in the large enclosures. There were ducks and swans. They were swimming merrily. Next we saw monkeys. They were jumping from one branch to another. A few of us offered them groundnuts and bananas. Then we saw apes and gorillas. They were big in size. We saw fishes of different kind swimming in ponds. They presented a pleasant sight. Next to the fishes, were enclosures of lions. A few of them were sitting calmly basking in the sun. One of them roared. It was a frightening roar. By this time we were tired and hungry. We sat in the shade of a huge tree and enjoyed our lunch boxes we had with us. After about half an hour we got up and moved ahead. Next to the lion’s enclosures we saw panthers with black spots. They looked ugly and scaring. We then saw foxes, hippopotamuses, elephants and different kinds of birds. Peacocks were the best to look at with their beautiful feathers. We also saw hyenas, crocodiles, giraffes and zebras. It was a nice visit to the zoo. We came out and boarded our school bus. From our school we went back to our homes. It was a memorable visit.

3. A JOURNEY BY TRAIN

My elder sister lives in Pune and works there. I got an invitation to spend my holidays with her. I booked a ticket in the Bombay-Pune Mail. On the appointed day I reached the railway station. The train was at the platform. I boarded it and found my seat. It was near a window. The train halted at many stations. At every station some passengers got down, while some others got into. The train passed over bridges and rivers. There was a party of young men in our compartment. They were having good fun. They were talking, laughing and singing. They also played cards. In the morning at a distance I could see the mountains and clouds. The scenery was very charming. There were many trees; the air was fresh and cool; birds were chirping on the trees. I saw an old man selling watermelons. My mouth watered at the sight of the ripe watermelon. I bought a small watermelon. As I sat eating it, I could not help admiring the beautiful sight and sounds of nature. Soon the train got the signal and started to move out of the station. I quickly scrambled up the train and took my berth and soon fell asleep. I woke up after an hour and had my breakfast. The journey had been very quiet and calm. Soon we were at the Pune station, and all of us alighted from the train. My sister had come to receive me. She was overjoyed to meet me.

4. A NATIONAL LEADER

Mahatma Gandhi is the father of the nation. Under his able leadership, India got freedom from foreign rule. He was born on 2nd October, 1869. He was an ordinary student but showed signs of future greatness. He had deep faith in God. He became a barrister. In South Africa he saw the way Asians were treated. They were victims of racial prejudice. He fought against the rulers of white Government. He was sent to jail many times but he was not scared of such punishments.

On his return to India he influenced the Indian masses with his nonviolence or Ahimsa. Soon he became the leader of the Indian National Congress. His two most powerful weapons were nonviolence and Satyagraha. We achieved freedom without shedding any blood. He worked for the unity of all the religions. He laid stress on hand-made clothes. He discarded foreign clothes and goods. He believed in simple living and high thinking. Even his enemies were impressed by his simplicity, truthfulness, nonviolence, sincerity of purpose and strength of character. He worked for the upliftment of the poor and downtrodden.

He died on 30th January 1948, a year after India got freedom. He was the true torch bearer of our struggle for freedom. The best tribute to him will be to follow the ways he had shown us.

5. A NATIONAL FESTIVAL

Dewali is an important festival of the Hindus. It is also called the festival of lights. It generally falls in the month of October/November. Children welcome this festival the most. It is said that the people of Ayodhya, welcomed Ram with lights after fourteen years of exile after killing the demons Ravana, Kumbhkarna and Meghnatha. This festival also reminds us of the victory of good over evil. On the day of Diwali people wear new clothes. Children buy fire crackers and toys. At night the city looks like a fairy queen due to the lights over roof tops, houses, shops etc. At night Goddess Lakshmi, the goddess of wealth is worshipped. After Lakshmi pujan, people distribute sweets among neighbours, friends and relatives. This develops sweet relations. On the whole this festival is celebrated with great zeal and religious feeling.
6. MY BEST FRIEND

It is good to have friends. One's life without a friend is unpleasant. One can share one's joys and sorrows with a friend. But to have a true friend isn’t so easy. I am fortunate to have a true friend. He is Raja, my best friend and companion. He is of my age. He comes of an educated and well-cultured family. He helps the poor and the needy. He is very gentle and seldom gets angry. He believes in simple living and high thinking. Everyone speaks highly of him. He is loved and respected whereever he goes. He is a good player of football. He also plays other games. He is healthy and strong. He helps me in studies. He is good at studies and extra co-curricular activities. He has won many certificates of merit. I am proud of him.

37. LEARN TO WRITE STORIES

1. Now write the complete story:

There was a hungry fox. It was roaming in search of food. Fortunately, it saw a cock picking grains outside a village. To have a good chance, it laid nearby licking chops it got from somewhere. Getting the right opportunity, the fox pounced on the cock and grabbed it under its paws and later on to the mouth. The fox ran away with the cock. Some children who were playing nearby saw this and raised an alarm, “The fox has taken away our cock.” The people heard the words of the children. They chased the fox to have back their cock. The cock said to the fox, “Tell them that now I am yours, not theirs.” The fox placed the cock on the ground to speak to them. The clever and wise cock ran away and jumped onto a nearby tree to be safe. The wisdom of the cock saved its life.

Moral: Wisdom beats cunning.

Now write the complete story :

On a hot summer day, a lion was lying asleep under a shady tree. A mouse was also living in a hole under the tree. The mouse came out of its hole and jumped over the lion’s body. The lion woke up and got very angry. It caught the mouse under its paws. It was ready to kill the mouse. The mouse realised its mistake and requested to be pardoned saying that it would help him in need. The lion laughed loudly and let the mouse free.

After sometime, a hunter came to the forest. He saw the lion. He cast his net over the sleeping lion. The lion was caught. It tried to tear the net but could not. The lion roared loudly. Hearing the sound, the mouse came there. He called more mice. They nibbled the net together and set the lion free. The lion thanked the mice and realised that one should never think the small persons to be of little value.

Moral : A good turn always deserves another.

A. Write a letter to your father telling him how you fared in the half-yearly examinations.

Sept. 2000
Dear Papa

For a long time, I have been thinking to write to you but I could not do so due to my half yearly examinations. I want to inform you that I have fared very well in the examinations this time compared to last time. I hope to secure nearly 100 per cent marks in Maths, Sanskrit, G.K. and Computer. In English, Hindi, Science and Social Studies too I hope to get more than 85 per cent marks if the marking is not very hard. I am satisfied over my performance. I shall write to you after receipt of report card. Please convey my respects to Dadaji and Dadiji and love to Ritu.

2. Write to your friend about your favourite hobby.

Oct. 2000

Dear Harish
Thank you for your letter. You have asked me what my favourite hobbies are. Well, my hobby is collecting stamps. I have been collecting stamps for the past six years. Therefore, I have a bigger collection than any of my friends here. The collection includes certain rare stamps, sent by friends in other countries in return for those which I sent to them.
The stamps can be not only delightful but also instructive. Each stamp has a story to tell me of far away countries and strange people. Looking through the stamps, I can follow the history of nations with great interest.

Best wishes
Yours Sincerely
